PRESS RELEASE
For immediate release*PRUDENT PLANNING FOR YOUR PET IS IN THE BAG*The EVACSAK™ Aims To Keep Your Pet Safe

La Center, Washington— Cats, dogs, rabbits and even ferrets have found an open seat alongside their human family in many RVs and trucks that are cruising the highways. On the open road, now more than ever, pet owners are faced with providing for their animal friends in what is essentially a moving house with limited space. Rebecca A. Rodriguez, animal advocate and inventor, discovered a void for small animals while developing an evacuation plan for a large humane society. The EVACSAK™, an emergency transportation bag for animals, was designed by Rodriguez to be easily accessible, comfortable for the animal and durable.

For several years, the EVACSAK™ was available primarily to professionals in the animal care industry. Terri Crisp, long-time animal rescuer and author of the book Out of Harm's Way, was the first person to take the EVACSAK™ into the field. Crisp said, "The Evacsak™ is one of the greatest things ever invented and I am telling people all the time that they should have one for each cat that they own." Hundreds of animal related sites reference the EVACSAK™ in their disaster preparedness guidelines as "a safe and secure way of transporting small animals" and "a great alternative to a standard carrier".

Rodriguez says, "If a person is forced from their RV or truck during an emergency, they must be able to react quickly to get themselves and their animal companion out. The EVACSAK™ can help them do this." Margaret Silva, a satisfied customer writes, "My husband and I travel the nation in our motor home. We have three cats and two dogs. I wouldn't be without this amazing product." Sporting new features, in two different sizes, the EVACSAK™, which is perfect for cats, small breed dogs, reptiles, rabbits, ferrets and rodents, is now available to the public exclusively via the Internet at www.evacsak.net.
